Re: November 2021 Consumption Tax Report

Aggregate Taxable Sales & Industry Highlights:

Taxable sales for the month of November were up 23% relative to 2020 and 51% relative to 2019. While strong collections relative to the same period in recent years, November largely did not sway the year-to-date pacing as it is a light tourist period, and after eleven months of the year, collections remain 30% above 2020 collections and 24% above 2019.

November collections reflect a robust level of economic activity in aggregate, but this high-level view needs a caveat in that four sectors did see some weaker figures relative to the same period in 2020, those being Food and Drug, Automobiles, Marijuana and Bank / Finance. Two of these industries - Automobile and Food & Drug - are likely still feeling the effects of supply chain issues with bottlenecks at various distribution points and material availability like computer chip shortages, all being exacerbated by a prolonged labor shortage. Despite the monthly softness, these same four industries, and in fact all industries, have experienced higher annual taxable sales when compared to 2020.

Finally, roughly 72% of November sales were generated within the City’s brick and mortar establishments vs. 28% from online/external businesses. As is expected, the areas of greatest concentration for out-of-City sales is in three main sectors: construction, utilities and telecom, and miscellaneous.

Sales and Lodging Tax:

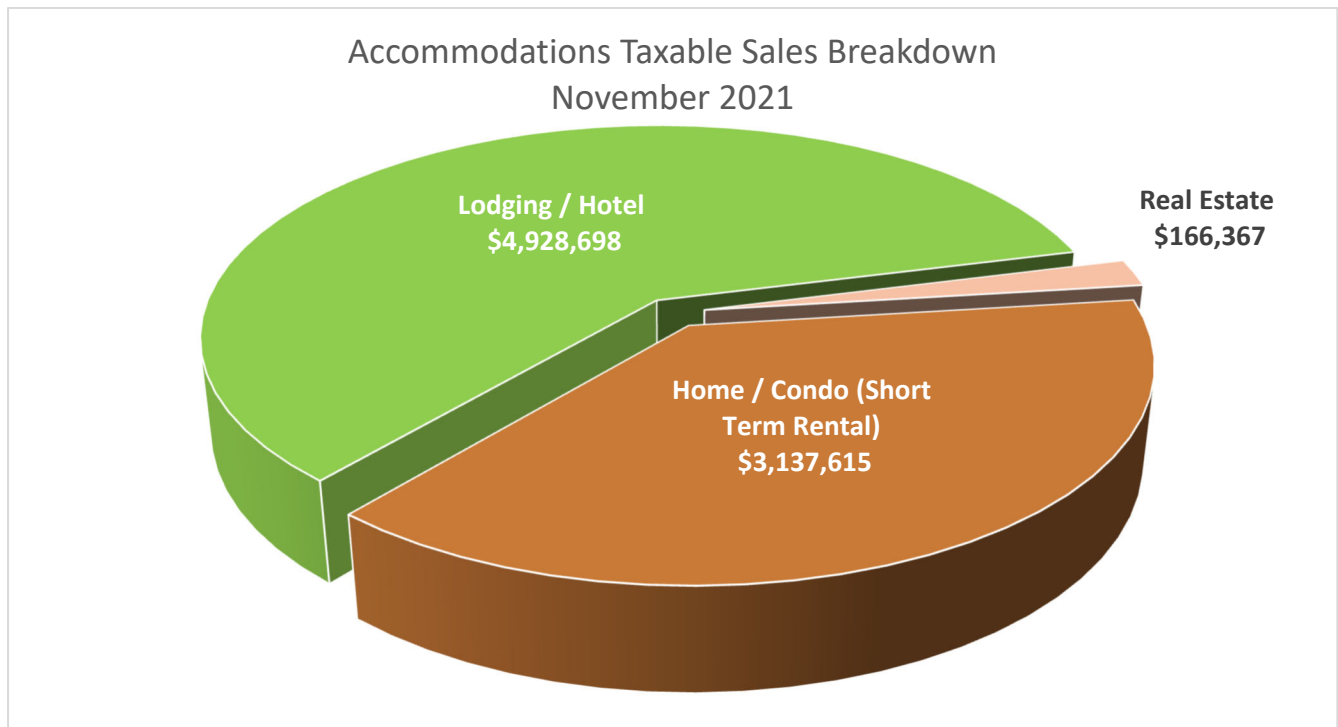

Actual tax collections for the month of November were up 18% relative to 2020 and 45% relative to 2019. November is typically a less robust month in terms of economic activity (averaging perhaps just 4% - 5% of annual collections), with tourism really pushing up mostly in the last week of the year around Thanksgiving break. Looking at year-to-date collections, 2021 remains roughly 31% above 2020 and 25% above 2019 collections through eleven months.

Isolating the discussion to the separate and dedicated City 2.0% lodging tax, November collections were up 25% relative to 2020 and 64% relative to 2019 remittances; and on a year-to-date basis, collections are pacing 23% over 2020 and are now even with 2019 levels.

Short-Term Rentals

As noted last month, the short-term rental (STR) market in Aspen will not see expansion beyond the current number of license and permit holders allowed to operate, following the City Council's adoption of Ordinance #27 on December 8th. This action included a moratorium on land use applications for new STRs in the community, effective immediately. With this pause, the Council and the Community plan to take the next number of months to discuss the impact these businesses have on the neighborhoods where they are located; the transit, utility and other infrastructure needs to accommodate these operations and guests; and the environmental impacts they bring around waste, noise, etc.

With this in mind, taxable sales from short-term rentals for November made up 38% of the overall lodging industry total. This is a larger portion of the monthly lodging total but is somewhat expected given November's lower price point for traditional lodge rooms in a shoulder season period. As demand elevates in the coming months, prices are anticipated to follow and will adjust the percentage of room sales originating by these different lodge offerings, and should shift the mix.

City Share of County Sales Tax:

The City of Aspen is allocated a portion of Pitkin County's 2.0% sales tax, with its share established based on a formulaic allocation for all municipalities generating economic activity within the County boundaries. Because the County tax collection process is performed at the State level, the County's collections lag by an additional month relative to the City's own collection process.

Pitkin County's year-to-date collections are pacing roughly 25% ahead of both 2020 and 2019 levels and appear largely in lock step with the City of Aspen's own growth in tax collections.

Real Estate Transfer Taxes:

December collections for the Housing and Wheeler Real Estate Transfer Taxes (RETT) have further established 2021 as the new highwater mark for RETT collections. The dedicated affordable housing collections came in 20% above last year's previous record; the dedicated arts collections were equally impressive but demonstrated slightly less growth at 14% over 2020 figures. How these back-to-back record sales periods and low inventory, plus the December 8th moratorium, impact future real estate sales now becomes the new consideration as we venture into 2022.

Beginning October 2020, two new categories (Bank / Finance and Health / Beauty) were added to reflect items previous reported within Miscellaneous. These adjustments will ultimately skew the annual percentage change in these industries and is therefore important to note - industry contraction or expansion cannot be gauged by these percentages until 2022, when a full year's worth of data has been compiled with the new categorizations.
